OpenTech Adds New Graduates to INSOMNIAC Team

SCOTTSDALE, Arizona – July 25, 2006 – OpenTech Alliance, Inc., the makers of INSOMNIAC™ self-storage kiosks, announced today that it has filled two key positions at its Phoenix headquarters with recent college graduates. Sean Moriarty joined in March as business development manager for the Mountain Region and Western Canada after receiving his Bachelors in Business Administration from the Isenberg School of Management, University of Massachusetts, Amherst with cum laude honors. Jason Bradley joined the team part-time in June in the technical services department while completing his Electronic and Computer Technology degree from DeVry University. Jason will be graduating with summa cum laude honors and shifting to fulltime technical services in October.

“We’re excited to add this next generation of talent to our great INSOMNIAC team,” said Robert Chiti, OpenTech’s CEO. “Sean and Jason both bring a level of enthusiasm, determination and professionalism that will help drive our company and products to the next level. As kiosks become standard equipment at storage facilities, we know these two guys will play a big part in making our customers successful.”

OpenTech Alliance, Inc. is the leading developer of self-storage kiosks. OpenTech’s INSOMNIAC kiosks enable customers to rent units, make payments, purchase locks, and update their accounts 24 hours a day on their own without a manager’s assistance.
